Communication With Outside World-Near-Blizzard in Pittsburgh Causes Great Suffering-Steamers Report Rough Weather.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, November 3.—The first great storm heralding the approach of winter is sweeping to-night over six States.

Wires are down in Western Pennsylvania, Northern Ohio, Western Mary-land, West Virginia, Southern Michigan and a small section of Western New York.

Railroad and other traffic is serious-ly hampered in Western Maryland, West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania and Ohlo, where the fall of snow has been especially heavy.

Cleveland was cut of from wire communication with the outside world from an early hour in the evening. The storm in that vicinity consisted of high winds and wet snow, followed by falling temperature, which caused wires to snap in all directions.

In Pittsburgh the storm attained the proportions of a blizzard, the snowfall breaking all records for November. Ten inches of snow had fallen in the heart of the city by 9 P. M. The wet snow freezing on the wires caused them to break, whole districts being left without telephone communication or trolley service.
